Progress Review 2025

Seizing the opportunity of the 10th Anniversary of the Nansen Initiative Protection Agenda (NIPA), this event takes stock of progress made towards the protection of persons displaced across borders in the context of disasters and climate change. It looks ahead to the pressing need to strengthen legal international protection standards, noting that 90 million forcibly displaced people are currently living in countries highly exposed to climate-related hazards. This session contributes directly to the Global Refugee Forum (GRF) Progress Review 2025 by highlighting key achievements for the advancement of the GRF Multistakeholder Pledge on Climate Action.
